

Here and There

Editorial By Alex. H. Washburn

PRESIDENT Roosevelt announces today he has charged Secretary Ickes, of the Department of the Interior, with the task of transplanting unemployed factory workers from the big cities to the farm. The federal government is going to spend 25 million dollars to find out whether the cities' jobless can't be made self-supporting on the soil.

Official Canvass Rejects Repeal by 52.85 Percentage

Hempstead's Final Vote
841 for Repeal, 943

BIG JOHNSON VOTE

Official Totals Show 1,425 for Johnson, 381 for Wood

Repeal lost in Hempstead county by a margin of 102 votes, the official canvass by the County Election Board late Friday showed 841 for repeal and 943 against repeal.

The complete unofficial returns had given the anti-repealists a lead of 145 votes, showing them polling over 54 per cent of the vote. The official tabulation gives them 52.85 per cent.

Absentee Vote
The anti-repeal lead was cut down by corrections and by the absentee vote. Absentees voted 11 for repeal, and 6 against repeal.

The official vote for chief justice of the Arkansas Supreme Court, which never was completed on the unofficial returns, showed:
C. E. Johnson 1,425; Carroll D. Wood 381.

The absentee vote gave Johnson 11 and Wood 6.
The total vote on the federal prohibition referendum was 1,784, approximately 62 per cent of the 1933 poll tax list of 2,881; and the total vote on chief justice was 1,806.

Oregon 20th to Vote for Repeal

Pacific Coast State Also Repeals State Prohi- bition Act

PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—A majority of nearly two to one for repeal of the 18th amendment and Oregon's state prohibition laws was maintained Saturday in returns from Friday's election.

Oregon thus became the 20th state to ratify the amendment repealing the 18th amendment.

Early Report for Repeal
PORTLAND, Ore.—(AP)—A definite trend toward repeal of the Eighteenth amendment was apparent in Oregon Friday night as the first incomplete returns of Friday's special election were tabulated.

Reports from 293 out of 4,787 precincts, including 94 from Multnomah county (Portland) gave: For repeal, 21,161; against repeal, 14,419.

The vote on state repeal was yes, 20,939; no, 14,308.

Wet leaders forecast Oregon would become the 20th state to approve the proposal for repeal.

Election officials estimated that considerably less than half of the 444,000 registered voters exercised their franchise.

Purkins Is Liable for Another Bond

Governor's Secretary
Loses Judgment in Jefferson Court

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—First & Thomas & Medicine Co. was awarded a judgment over Duval C. Purkins, secretary to Governor Futrell, in circuit court Thursday.

Judge T. G. Parham decided in favor of the medicine company because Mr. Purkins signed a bond for Wayman F. Gray for $443.76.

Brazil Offers Cotton to Japan
RIO DE JANEIRO.—(AP)—Brazil, which for several years has exported little cotton, has instructed its consul in Kobe and Tokyo to study means of breaking into the Japanese market.

Brazil now uses nearly all its cotton in home textile industries.

Post Plans to Reach New

Jump

EDMONTON, Alberta, Canada.—(AP)—Wiley Post, Oklahoma around-the-world-flier, hopped off for New York on the last leg of his trip early Saturday morning.

He had stayed here only 1 hour 34 minutes to refuel his ship the Winnie Mae and get a brief rest after flying overnight from Fairbanks, Alaska.

When he left here for New York he was 20 hours 12 minutes ahead of the record he set with Harold Gatty in 1931.

Post was determined to fly the 2,200 miles to New York in one hop, expecting to land there before midnight Saturday.

He was confident he would beat the Post-Gatty record of 8 days 15 hours 51 minutes.

Fraud Charged by Drys in Tennessee

Repeal Majority of 8,840
in State, But 30,000
in Memphis

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—While repealists Friday night clung to their slim margin of victory in Tennessee's prohibition referendum of Thursday, the dry's state chairman hurled charges of fraud and announced that a contest of the election was under consideration.

Tabulations Friday night showed: For repeal 124,922, against repeal 116,082, a repeal majority of 8,840.

Returns were in from 2,091 of the 2,232 precincts, the missing boxes being small and widely scattered.

Dr. John F. Baggett, charging that the "grossest possible fraud" occurred in the two largest cities, which together rolled up a majority of almost 40,000 for repealists, said "We have the city machines of Nashville and Memphis to thank for the very narrow margin which the wets are claiming."

He saw a possibility of the official figures overturning the lead repealists piled up in unofficial returns and said "all right-thinking people, regardless of whether they were for or against repeal, know we deserve and have won."

Alluding to the more than 30,000 repeal majority in Memphis, Dr. Baggett said "it is difficult to explain why the Memphis machine should have been generous enough to give us 2,001 votes," when "by the methods they were using in the election, they might have given us one vote and eliminated the 2,000."

Dr. W. A. Bryant was a brother of Paul Bryant, local druggist. He served this county as representative in a special session of the legislature in 1897.

In 1903 he again served as a representative. It was in Little Rock during a session of the legislature that he met Miss Mae Sparks. She was serving as clerk in the legislature. The two were wed in Little Rock.

Continuing in political affairs, Dr. Bryant was elected Hempstead county judge, serving from 1904 to 1910. He died 15 years ago.

First of Cotton Contracts Okehed

15,000 Acceptances Mailed Out From Washington

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Administrators of the farm law Saturday formally accepted the first of the individual contracts offered signed by cotton growers in 16 states, mailing approximately 15,000 acceptances to county agents.

The administrators estimated that as a result of the program more than 10 million acres of cotton land would be plowed up in the coming weeks.

Below are the leaders in the crowd of 2000 eager applicants who jammed corridors and stairways leading to doors of the Detroit office.

Romance Renewed for Hope Woman

Mrs. Mai Sparks Briant
Weds Sweetheart of
25 Years Ago

ST. LOUIS.—(AP)—A steamboat romance of 33 years ago has led to the marriage of Capt. Henry W. Leyhe, general manager of the Eagle Packet Company, here and Mrs. Mai Sparks Briant, widow of Dr. W. A. Briant of Hope, Ark.

The ceremony, it was learned Friday, was performed June 30 at the Leyhe home in University City, a suburb.

Captain and Mrs. Leyhe met in 1900 before either was married, when he was master of the steamer Troy Eagle and she was a passenger on a cruise to Cape Girardeau, Mo. The acquaintance was revived 25 years later when they met by chance here.

Meantime, both had married. Dr. Briant died 15 years ago and the first Mrs. Leyhe died about three years ago.

"Markets of the world may be flooded with over-production, and people of the world may not have been able to make a good living from their efforts, but there is no overproduction of friendliness, kindness and neighborliness," G. T. Cross told an assemblage at the schoolhouse in Emmet Friday night.

The occasion was the good-will visit of the Kiwanis club to that community, when 21 members of the club, and invited guests, entertained the people of Emmet.

Continuing his talk on "Good Citizenship," Mr. Cross said:

"The supply of these splendid qualifications always holds out, and their use continues to pay dividends. We can't always be first, we must remember, but we can try. We are reminded that George Washington was 'First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.' But we notice he married a widow."

"The really good citizen has the aim of a useful, beneficial and happy life, rather than the sole aim of making a living," Mr. Cross said. "A good citizen is an optimist, whereas a pessimist, if given the choice of two evils, would grab both of them."

"This is the dawn of a new day in governmental affairs," said W. S. Atkins, another featured speaker. "Something has gone wrong with the machinery of our government, for most of us in this section are in about the same fix—we are all broke."

Mr. Atkins told of a negro who had found a silver dollar. While displaying his lucky find another negro asked, "What does that wording on the dollar mean, E. Plouribus Eum?" The second negro answered, "My God, My God, why has thou forsaken me?"

"The question before us all today," Mr. Atkins continued, "is what can we do to better conditions, to speed the maximum benefits of our form of government unless a majority of our citizens discharge the responsibilities of their citizenship. We have been satisfied to let a few do our thinking for us. But the time has come when we, as citizens, are willing to labor for our rights."

Miss Ruby Blevins, talented local radio artist, and Miss Jeanne Robertson entertained with several vocal solos and duets, with violin and guitar accompaniment. John Ridgill and his five-piece string band played several numbers, including male solos.

Loan Applications on Hope Property Go to Texarkana

Must Be Filed With Texarkana Mayor Before Review by Local Men

APPRaisal IS HERE

Roy Anderson, L. F. Monroe Appear Only After Actual Filing

Although two Hope men hold offices under the Home Owners Loan corporation, federal agency which is refinancing mortgaged city residential property, applications must be filed with August B. Clark, assistant state manager for Arkansas, with offices in the Texarkana (Ark.) city jail.

Mr. Clark is Mayor of the Arkansas-side city.

The procedure as explained to The Star is this:

When an application is filed with Mr. Clark in Texarkana he sends it back to Hope where Roy Anderson, insurance man, appraises the property. If the appraisal is satisfactory to Mr. Clark it is again returned to Hope for perusal of title by L. F. Monroe, the corporation's local attorney. After this procedure the refinancing may begin.

Original applications must be filed with Mr. Clark, and not with Mr. Anderson or Mr. Monroe, The Star is informed.

Milwee's Explanation
An explanation of the provisions of the home owners loan act of 1933 has been given by R. Frank Milwee, state manager, with offices at Little Rock.

"The law provides for relief in four special types of cases," Mr. Milwee said. "The first class of cases comprises the refinancing of home mortgages which were in existence prior to the passage of the act June 13, 1933."

"In this classification, the corporation is authorized to pay taxes in cash and to pay in cash for necessary repairs and maintenance and for the incidental expenses of the refinancing and to take up the existing mortgage notes, including subsequent mortgages as well as first mortgages, and also judgments and other liens on the property, by issuing to the holders of such mortgages and other liens the Home Owners Loan Corporation 4 per cent tax exempt bonds."

"The total of the cash advanced and the bonds issued must not exceed 80 per cent of the present-day appraised value and in no event must exceed $14,000. The rate of interest to the home owner in this type of case will be five per cent."

"Of course, it is necessary for the holders of the liens to be willing to exchange their liens for Home Owners Loan Corporation bonds in order to effect this refinancing. Obviously, the government cannot by any law compel lien holders to make this exchange, but it hoped and believed that in all worthy cases the lien holders will patriotically co-operate in this worthy movement."

Second Classification
"In the second class of cases, where the holder of the lien is unwilling to exchange his mortgage notes or other liens for the tax exempt corporation bonds, and where the home owner cannot obtain the necessary loan from ordinary lending agencies, the corporation is authorized to pay off existing loans in cash, provided that the amount required to do so, including the amount required for taxes, necessary repairs and expenses incidental to the transaction, does not aggregate more than 40 per cent of the present-day appraised value of the property. The rate of interest to the home owner in this type of case will be 6 per cent."

"In the third class of cases, where the property has been foreclosed within two years prior to the refinancing by the corporation, the law authorizes the corporation to pay off existing loans in cash, provided that the amount required to do so, including the amount required for taxes, necessary repairs and expenses incidental to the transaction, does not aggregate more than 40 per cent of the present-day appraised value of the property. The rate of interest to the home owner in this type of case will be 6 per cent."

"Obviously, this redemption of homes requires not only the application of the former home owner, but also the consent of the present owner of the property. It is hoped and believed that a great deal of relief can be afforded in this particular type of case, where mortgage companies, banks and individual note holders have been compelled to buy in the property themselves when put up at a foreclosure sale, and where they

He is expected to be turned over to authorities in Illinois where kidnaping for ransom is punishable by death.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Stocks closed with a rally Saturday after two strenuous hours in which fluctuations, though extremely erratic, were much narrower than those of Friday.

The final prices were mostly above Friday's close. The market had a number of advances of $1 to $1 1/2 a share.

Cotton also rallied near the close with net gains of 15 to 70 cents a bale, compared with early losses of more than $2.

Several of the country's exchanges announced restricted trading hours effective Monday. The New York Stock Exchange will open at noon instead of 10 in the morning.

Mollisons Jump for United States

Afterward They Will Hop

City of Bagdad

PENDINE, Wales.—(AP)—The famous flying Mollisons, Jim and Amy, took off Saturday morning for New York on an ambitious adventure in which they hoped to cross the Atlantic and then fly back on a non-stop flight record to Bagdad, Asia Minor.

They planned to reach New York Sunday night, and after a short rest cross the ocean once more seeking a distance non-stop record to the ancient city of Mesopotamia, beyond the Atlantic, and beyond Europe.

The weather was acceptable at their start.

"This may be my last spectacular flight," said Captain James A. Mollison, who made the first solo east-west flight over the Atlantic last August.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Threat to Use 'Big Stick'
 Steel Produces Code

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The big stick hasn't been applied to industry, but it has been vigorously waved.

Gov. Hugh Johnson had been cursing under his breath at basic industries which wouldn't bring in codes under the recovery act. He carried in his pocket a stick of dynamite in the form of an ultimatum requiring submission of codes within two weeks—or else he'd promulgate codes of his own. Roosevelt told him to hold up on that, though Johnson had letters indicating that the steel industry didn't intend to play ball.

Then Roosevelt decided to act in his own way. He summoned Boss Myron Taylor of U. S. Steel and told him to snap into it. The steel code was ready the very next day and as word went out that there wasn't going to be any fooling, other large industries began to fall over themselves getting in their codes.

Johnson fumed again when he saw the lumber code, its 48-hour week and 24-cent minimum wage. He dictated a scorching statement, but step on it, he said, and substituted a more diplomatic one which merely called the lumbermen's terms "whole unacceptable."

The first drastic step was taken when the government moved to put the milk industry on a license basis to force recalcitrant members into marketing agreements.

Ne "Super-Cabinet"

"Mack," said Roosevelt to his secretary, Marvin McIntyre, as he prepared to announce his new council of recovery and relief directors, "I'll bet some fellows will be calling this a 'super-cabinet.'"

"Oh, no, they won't," replied McIntyre.

So everyone proceeded to call it a "super-cabinet." That's a poor name for it, since the administrator bloc is not more powerful than the cabinet. The principal directors and administrators are under the supervision of cabinet members.

Diplomacy Cries a Brewery

Acting Secretary of State William Phillips was miffed when he found himself announcing that negotiations for return of Jimmy Mattern to American soil in a Soviet plane were being carried on between the United States and Russian governments through a New York brewery backing the rescue of Mattern. Phillips hadn't paid much attention to the telegram from the Soviet asking permission for the foreign plane to land on American soil, or realized that the United States would be forced to reply through the brewery.

"This is puzzling," he admitted, when asked if the brewery were backing the rescue flight. An aide explained that it was.

"Why must we use the good offices of a brewery to permit a Soviet plane to land in Alaska?" he was asked for the fifth time. "Oh well, let it go!" exclaimed Phillips, throwing up his hands.

A Tardy President

A Washington newspaper semi-seriously demanded on behalf of correspondents that the president hold his press conferences from 20 to 30 minutes later than scheduled time.

The next day the president postponed his conference an hour and then let the correspondents wait 20 minutes more before calling them. It was busy. His recent average of tardiness has been about 25 minutes. (Copyright, 1933, NEA Service, Inc.)

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Hold yourself in line when it comes to the line of your eyebrows. Most women lose their sense of proportion when they get eyebrow tweezers in their hands. Don't lose yours!

Fashions in the ways to wear your eyebrows have changed. You no longer tweeze them into a thin straight line if you would be smart. Their own natural line is much more becoming.

However, don't discard eyebrow tweezers altogether. You'll need them to remove straggling hairs which grow down too far on your eyelids and the ones that have grown too closely together in the middle.

You should have a smooth unlined brow. Eyebrows which grow close together in the middle mar their appearance. Tweeze those hairs often. If your eyebrows are unusually thick and have a shaggy appearance, thin out a few hairs occasionally.

Don't try to change the natural line. Leave them in the line in which they grow—just be sure and keep that natural line smooth, with no rough edges.

Tweezing your eyebrows until only a few hairs remain defeats your purpose. Instead of enhancing the beauty of your forehead and eyes, the excessive tweezing will serve to disfigure them.

If your eyebrows aren't thick enough, you might use a little plain white vaseline on them at night.

Don't forget to brush them with a small, soft brush after you powder your face. They won't be shiny and beautiful if they are allowed to become encrusted with powder dust.

Eyebrow pencils can be used to darken eyebrows that are too light colored. But use it sparingly, especially in the daytime.

The soft stir was in the air that comes before a tempestuous, southern downpour. Leaves trembled, and somewhere a shutter swung. From the nearest house, a half acre away, came the hushed strains of the latest, sentimentally appealing waltz. Some blossoms proclaimed themselves and the fact that the noon had been hot by losing a heavy, sweet odor.

A Problem Facing Working Mothers Who Leave Males With Children

"I manage very well," said Mrs. Smith to Mrs. Jones. "You see I have Lena and she's a jewel."

"She certainly is a good scrubber," assented Mrs. Jones. "I see her doing your porches every day."

"Yes, and when John and I come home all tired out from work she has Daisy as clean as apin, her toys all picked up and the house in order. And a good dinner ready."

Mrs. Jones agreed that Mrs. Smith was very lucky to have Lena.

Money for Schooling

"So now, if you just say the word, John can get you that vacancy at the office," Mrs. Smith went back to the original subject.

"You wouldn't get what you used to earn before you were married, but it pays pretty well. And in six months you will be making a lot more. Why don't you?"

"Well, I don't see how I can leave Suzy. I have no Lena, and anyway, Bill's funny. He would probably raise the roof if I went out of work again. He isn't making much but they promised more soon."

"Oh, men! They never care once you start. And Lena has a sister who is just as good as she is. Maybe you don't need the money now, but I don't either. What I am doing is to save mine to buy a house. Besides, I put away a little each week into a fund for educating Daisy some day. I'm doing it all for Suzy."

"You tempt me terribly. I'd love to do that for Suzy. She doesn't need me so much now as she'll need the advantages later. All right and thank you so much. Will you tell your husband that I'd love to take that position? And will you speak to Lena?"

"A week later Mrs. Jones went down to see Mrs. Smith who had been home a week with a sprained ankle. "I'm to report Monday," she announced. "I just heard today. And Torra is splendid. Why Suzy minds her already better than she does me. I'm already building my castles in the air. I hope I'll suit the firm. I really think I shall enjoy it better than housework."

A Change of Heart

Mrs. Smith said, "I'm not going back any more. I sent in my resignation today."

"Oh, I'm sorry. Well, after you have rested maybe you'll change your mind."

"No, I don't think so. I have had a week now to use my eyes and I've decided that Daisy needs me now to be with her, more than she'll need a fine house and a college education later. Maybe John will make money. If he doesn't I can't help it. I think I may have been wrong."

"I'm so relieved!" cried her neighbor. "I have been feeling the same way. And I don't believe I'll go either."

I believe these two mothers to be wise. Sometimes it works out well enough the other way. It is a decision each mother must work out for herself. But there are two ways of looking at it, and it is well to weigh them both very carefully before choosing.

your eyebrows are unusually thick and have a shaggy appearance, thin out a few hairs occasionally.

ELINOR STAFFORD, 29, falls in love with BARRETT COLVIN, 35, but her jealous, scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELIA SEXTON, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. These drunken VANCE CARTER shoots BENTWELL STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Stafford fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the lies Lida has told him, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. He has a ward, nine-year-old GERARD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR. Barrett has promised MARCIA never to reveal the boy's true story.

The doctor orders a change of climate for Elinor's father and she goes with him to Aiken, S. C. Lida asks Barrett for $10,000. When he refuses she puts detectives on his trail and learns about his ward. Lida concludes the boy is Barrett's son.

Barrett pays an unannounced visit to Aiken. He finds BENTWELL there and suspects Elinor of carrying on a flirtation with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

"What attractive couple," Barrett commented, glancing at the tray.

Elinor nodded. "Everything here is attractive. I understand the owners haven't much money but they certainly have excellent taste. It's a darling house. I love it!"

"It's for sale, Elinor. Just as it is—furnished. May I buy it for you?" Barrett asked earnestly.

She looked startled, raising her face to his.

"I'd like to leave something with you that will make you remember me," he said wistfully. "I should think you could let me do that—if you leave me. Let me get it any way and you can decide later about keeping it. Will you, dear?"

He had said, "If you leave me—" The thought churned in Elinor's heart and set her pulse racing. Then he had thought she might not leave him!

"You're very kind—" she whispered.

"Not a bit of it!" He drew his hand away, moistened his lips and sat back away from her. He was going soft again, he warned himself.

"How about the house?" he questioned after a silence as she set her cup on the tray.

"I'm tempted," she admitted. "They even have the books I like on the shelves. Could you buy the books too?" she finished eagerly.

"I should think so. I understand the house is offered just as it is."

It was offered as the result of another domestic tragedy, he knew, but he didn't want Elinor to know that. It might change her feeling for the place a bit. Later she played for him softly, so that the piano could not be heard in the wing where Bentwell Stafford slept. Finally, resolving to "get it over," Barrett suggested that they go to the terrace. He laid a light wrap about her shoulders, remonstrated that it wouldn't keep her warm. She answered, as women always do, that it was very warm and they stepped across the window-sill into the night.

Rain was coming and big, billowing clouds raced across

AFRAID

We are afraid of fear!
So many fall
Ere blows be struck at all,
Terror brings failure near,
And doubting fashions giants
Huge and rough
Out of mere shadow stuff
Which chill the heart,
Crushing men from the start.
We are afraid of dread!
So many stay
Facing a rugged way,
Fearful to move ahead;
Visioning with alarm
All that may strike to harm;
Dooming themselves to fail
Before foe or ill-wind assail,
Lord, let me run the chance!
Let me not sink
Under sick thoughts I think,
Rather, we would advance
Bravely against the doubt;
Eye clear and muscle stout
Out where the fight is made—
To win or lose—unafraid—

would now be glad indeed to transfer the property back to the home owner in exchange for these Home Owners Loan Corporation bonds.

"The last type of case is where property is not encumbered by a mortgage, but where the home owner needs relief for the payment of taxes and necessary repairs and maintenance of his property. In such cases the corporation is authorized to make loans in cash, up to but not exceeding 50 per cent of the present-day appraised value, and of course in no event can such loans exceed $10,000. The rate of interest to the home owner in this type of case will be 5 per cent.

Corporation Becomes Creditor

"When any types of relief has been extended, the home owner is relieved of his indebtedness to the lien holders and becomes indebted to the corporation for the amount of bonds issued and cash advanced by the corporation.

"His repayment is to be amortized on the basis of monthly payments in an amount sufficient to pay off the entire indebtedness, both principal and interest, in a period not exceeding 15 years. It is estimated that these monthly payments will average approximately $8 per $10,000 per month. "Payments may be made quarterly, semi-annually or annually instead of monthly wherever the corporation finds that the situation of the home owner requires it. It is expected, however, that monthly payments will be required because experience has shown that usually the home owner can make these payments much better than the larger payments.

"No payment of principal will be necessarily required during the first three years after the passage of the act if the home owner is not otherwise in default. Furthermore, the law provides that any time during the life of the loan, an extension of time may be granted but the total of all extensions may not exceed an aggregate of more than three years.

Appraisal Difficult Problem

"The matter of appraisal is a difficult problem on account of the chaotic condition of the country with reference to values. It is the purpose of the corporation in making appraisals to arrive at the fair worth of the property. The appraised value, therefore, means the fair worth of the property or the present-day reasonable value of the property. The fair worth of the property is not necessarily the technical market value.

"In arriving at its appraisal, the corporation will consider: (1) The market value at the time of the appraisal; (2) the cost of a similar lot at the time of the appraisal, plus the reproduction cost of the building, less depreciation; (3) the value of the premises, arrived at by capitalizing the monthly reasonable rental value of the premises over a period of the past 10 years. These three elements will be added together, and then divided by three in order to arrive at the appraisal of the corporation.

"To illustrate let us suppose that a typical American home in 1928 was reasonably worth $10,000; and therefore at that time, when there was a fairly normal market for homes, it had a market value of $10,000. Now let us assume that on account of the depression the present market value of his home has dropped to $6,000. Further assume that the present cost of a similar lot, plus the reproduction cost of the house, less depreciation, gives us a value of $6,500. Further assume that this home has a rental value of $100 a month 10 years ago, but now has a rental value of only $50 per month, and that the average rental value during the past 10 years has been $75 per month. By capitalizing this average rental value on the customary basis we would value the home at $7,500.

"Now let us add together the three respective values as above, namely—$6,000 for present market value, $6,500 for reproduction value, and $7,500 for capitalized rental value. Thus we would have an aggregate of $20,000. Dividing this aggregate by three we have a net result of $6,666. Consequently, on this basis, the present appraised value of the home, as fixed by the corporation, would be $6,700. (The foregoing is given simply as an illustration of the method underlying the appraisals of the corporation).

Flays Censorship of Panama Daily

Nelson Rounsevell Thinks U. S. Army Brought Pressure

PANAMA CITY, Panama.—Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, commanding the Panama Canal Department, appealed Thursday to President Harroldo Arias to silence Nelson Rounsevell, publisher of the Panama American, who has been editorially attacking General Brown over holding up publicity of the detention of Corp. Ralph Osman, Brooklyn, attached to the Headquarters Battery of the First Coast Artillery at Fort Sherman on the Atlantic side.

Rounsevell's daily came out with a blank space where his usual front page article and editorial should appear. Osman is charged with "having had in his possession documents of secret military information and is to be court martialled for the violation of act of June 15, 1917, known as the espionage act.

Rounsevell had announced that Osman was being held for supplying defense information to the Japanese and had intimated that a local American firm employing Japanese in handling its Japanese shipping business was implicated, which was denied by Japan. Neither Rounsevell nor General Brown would talk.

Rounsevell, however, admits that his article was censored and kept out by Panama authorities, who obviously acted under General Brown's request.

The United States Civil Service Commission will accept applications until August 8 for the positions of assistant and junior messengers in the Departmental Service, Washington, D. C.

The entrance salary for assistant messenger is $1,000 a year, and for junior messenger $600 a year, less a deduction of not to exceed 15 per cent as a measure of economy and a retirement deduction of 3 1/2 per cent.

As the States of Maryland, Virginia, Iowa, New Hampshire, Vermont, and the District of Columbia have already received appointments in excess of their quotas under the apportionment, residents of these States and the District of Columbia will not be admitted to this examination unless they submit documentary proof that they are entitled to military preference.

Full information may be obtained at the post office in this city.

HOOKS and SLIDES

One Day's Gossip

If the huge municipal stadium at Cleveland is too big for the Indians to win in, as some of the Cleveland sports writers claim, it is only natural to assume that the other parks around the circuit are too small for the team.

Heinie Manush was booed by Washington fans early this season, but Heinie won 'em over by his sensational "midsummer" batting and fielding.

Spiritual, Physical

One of the superstitions of trainers is that when a horse throws a shoe in a workout it's a bad omen and the animal should be scratched from his next race. Which was one of the reasons why Equipoise didn't run in the Stars and Stripes handicap against Gallant Sr. (the other reason being that big bundle of weight they wanted to put on the Whitney horse).

And Does He Play Tag?

Max Baer's father Jacob must be awarded some sort of trophy for his ideas about recreation. . . . the other day, explaining son Max's tastes in amusement, Jacob said: "The trouble is he's just a kid, always wanting to romp around with somebody, whether it's a little kid on the sidewalk or one of those Broadway dolls."

Just a Pal

Boston and nearby Massachusetts bailiwicks have been helping New Hampshire on the way back to prosperity. . . . the reason being Rockingham Park which contributes to the state of New Hampshire a nice percentage of the profits of a bang-up running horse meeting. . . . and it's still immoral to bet in Boston. . . . A frenzy of race-track building is breaking out in California since parimutuel wagering on the equine quadrupeds was legalized.

Yale is a wee bit peeved at Harvard for not sending the regular Crimson crew to the Pacific for that regatta. . . . Old Eli being obliged to wreck revenge on a combination outfit. . . . Bill Brown, New York's new boxing commissioner, doesn't fool. . . . after Sharkey was knocked out, he leaped into the ring, cut off Carnera's gloves and examined them carefully for hemlock, sashweights, etc.

Jimmy McLarin's father, Sam, who brought Jim over from Ireland when the welter champion was a baby, is 70 now. . . . and lives in Vancouver, B. C.

Dodo's, Maybe

Mess Cow—"Did you say you wanted those eggs turned over?"
Hard-Bitten Gob—"Yeah, to the Museum of Natural History."—Virginia Mountaineer.

Under Her Thumb

"And you have had the same servant for two years?"
"Yes," replied Mr. Crosslots. "She says she doesn't believe in changing after she has gone to the trouble of teaching a family her ways."—Washington Star.

NEARNESS

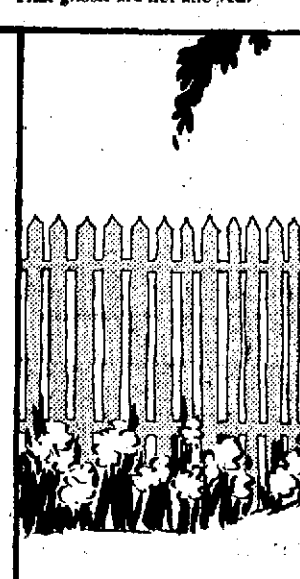

By HELEN WELSHIMER

SOMETIMES there is a row of days
When I am very gay,
Forgetting . . . temporarily . . .
That you have gone away.

BUT as a rule I seem to find
Tall people anywhere
Who have the semblance of your smile,
Your laughter, voice and hair.

YOU roam the streets, you ride the trains,
You wander through the park.
Your face goes drifting lazily
Across the summer dark.

YOU haunt and tease and follow me
Through each indifferent crowd—
Oh, won't somebody post a sign
That ghosts are not allowed?

Soviet court sentenced five men to death for putting wire nails and hair in restaurant soup in sabotage move. Had they put it in restaurant hash, perhaps nobody would have noticed it.

"Money talks," goes the old saying. Yes, but it never gives itself away.

News that longer dresses are again fashionable should please the average married man. He has always wanted his wife to wear her dresses long—months longer.

"Work Begins on World's Largest Bridge"—headline. The new one that the dentist gave us the other day feels just like that.

Reading that th Nazis are now marrying 50 couples at a time leads one to believe that there may be some truth in those German atrocity stories after all.
